Why Epirus Today

+20%

Annual tourism growth,
above national averages

#1

Most welcoming destination
in Greece (Booking.com 2026)

12 mo

Year-round operating season —
4 distinct demand windows

€250K

Golden Visa entry threshold
in Epirus (vs €800K in Athens)

Tourism momentum

Greece welcomed record visitor numbers. Epirus tourism grows at +20% annually — ahead of national averages and driven by rising connectivity.

International demand

Buyers from the US, UK, Middle East, and UAE are actively acquiring. Demand is diversifying beyond seasonal holiday use into year-round investment.

Strategic Mediterranean location

Direct flights from London, Berlin, and Vienna. Port gateway to Italy. Highways connecting Central Europe to the Ionian coast.

Active Golden Visa programme

One of Europe's most accessible residency-by-investment pathways. Epirus threshold: €250K — substantially lower than Athens and the islands.

What International Investors Face

No reliable local partner

No trusted counterpart who understands both the local market and international client expectations.

Limited off-market access

The best opportunities rarely appear on listing portals. Without local relationships, they remain invisible.

Legal & regulatory complexity

Greek property law, notarial process, and tax structures require specialist navigation at every stage.

Remote project management

Renovations, compliance, and handovers are nearly impossible to manage from abroad without a local anchor.

Golden Visa compliance

Qualifying asset selection, application timelines, and documentation require precise, experienced coordination.

Operations after acquisition

Property management, rental continuity, and maintenance are frequently overlooked at the point of purchase.
